

For the love of our brothers and sisters around the world.

For the love of all the communities CAFOD works with who are already affected by climate change.

For the love of God's entire Creation, we must act now.

Share what you love

The idea is simple: we all love something that will be affected by climate change. So, take a second and think of something you love. Now write a word or two describing it in the heart opposite. Then simply fill in your details below and send this sheet back to us. Later this year, we'll share your 'love' with politicians, so they'll see why you want them to act.

It's only the beginning: together we can play our part in creating a better world, for the love of everyone's future.

We're part of The Climate Coalition, a group of over 100 organisations with millions of supporters working together for climate action. Join an exciting new movement today to get political leaders to take climate change more seriously than ever.
