The extent to which pupils contribute to and benefit from the Catholic Life of the school is good

- St Joseph’s offers a warm and welcoming environment where all members are valued and respected. Pupils are proud of their school and take an active part in all aspects of school life. Parents report “There is a great sense of community - everyone does their part to make the school the best it can be.”

- The Catholic Life of the school is evidently at the heart of the school’s ethos and mission; as a result, pupils’ spiritual and moral development is good. Pupils are encouraged to take an active role in evaluating the Catholic Life of the school consequently the school is an inclusive community with a clear, shared vision and a strong sense of belonging.

- Standards of behaviour are good; pupils are polite and alert to the needs of others. They report “Everyone is kind to each other and any problems get sorted quickly.”

- Pupils lead and organise fundraising events for local, national and international charitable causes such as CAFOD, Mission Together, The Good Shepherd, Lighthouse Charity, St Wilfrid’s Centre and Bluebell Wood, a popular weekly fund-raising event being ‘Bun Friday.’ Through such enterprises, children demonstrate a heartfelt eagerness to find out about and help those in need.

- Through such strategies as Circle Time and Statements of Belief children are encouraged to express their views, listen to the views of others and understand the need to forgive and be forgiven.

- Adults provide good role models for the children and contribute significantly to the spiritual and moral development of the pupils. The Nurture Group, run by a member of the support staff, provides valuable pastoral support for pupils experiencing personal difficulties.
How well pupils achieve and enjoy their learning in Religious Education is good

- Through lesson observations and scrutiny of pupil workbooks, standards of learners’ work in Religious Education are good and pupils are achieving in line with or above national expectations.

- Pupils say they enjoy Religious Education as teachers make lessons interesting through drama, video clips and probing questioning which helps them to think more deeply. The work in their books is attractive and well-presented.

- Pupils demonstrate a secure level of religious literacy and knowledge of scripture. They articulate bible stories extremely well and explain what meaning they have for us today.

- Pupils are able to respond to teacher’s marking comments and can evaluate and improve their own work through an effective marking policy. Their knowledge, understanding and skills are developing, helping them to become more independent in their learning.

- The ‘Come and See’ programme is used very effectively along with other resources and support materials. Pupils acquire a good knowledge and understanding from first entry to the school and use this as a firm foundation to further their progress.

How well pupils respond to and participate in the school’s Collective Worship is outstanding

- This is a real strength of the school evidenced by how pupils show enthusiasm, reverence and active participation in Acts of Worship. In an observed assembly the children led a reflection on St John’s Gospel: “Anyone who believes in me will do what I have done and more”. They sang with great passion, fervour and all present were energised and enlightened by the experience.

- They enjoy praying together in class, in school liturgies and in Mass.

- They are reflective and focused during Collective Worship and from the earliest age pupils participate fully in prayer. It is very evident that prayer and age-appropriate worship are fundamental aspects of life at St Joseph’s. Parents report that the liturgical events they attend in school and in church are very moving, memorable and highly valued.

- Pupils are acquiring skills in planning and leading prayer and worship. The children’s Liturgy group meet every Tuesday to plan preparations for Mass, assemblies and other liturgies.

- The pupils have an excellent understanding of religious seasons and festivals and the colours of the liturgical season are used well to enhance displayed work. Good quality prayer corners reflect the liturgical year and themes being explored in the Come and See programme.
PROVISION

| The quality of Collective Worship provided by the school. | 1 |

The quality of teaching and how purposeful learning is in Religious Education is good

- The majority of teaching is good. Teachers have good subject knowledge; their lesson planning takes good account of pupils’ previous learning and effectively tailors tasks to challenge and enthuse learners.

- In lessons observed, the most successful lessons showed a range of teaching styles, good questioning techniques, clear explanations, well-paced lessons and use of technology ensuring pupil engagement. This contributes to a very good learning environment leading to good pupil progress. Using the interactive features of IT screens would enhance the learning experience.

- Records of attainment and assessment data are beginning to provide valuable information to inform the next steps in pupils’ learning.

- The collegiate approach to subject leadership is a strength. Both members of staff are passionate about their roles and are having a significant impact in developing subject development. They ensure that all staff are given support in planning, assessment and providing appropriate resources.

- Pupils are positively affirmed throughout their lessons and marking now informs them of their progress and increasingly identifies how they can improve. Effort and achievement are celebrated in assemblies, parents’ evenings, celebration events and on the school website.

- In the majority of lessons observed, pupils were thoughtfully encouraged to understand ideas related to the themes ‘Lent and Easter’ from the Come and See programme. Careful planning, challenging questions, guided discussion and quality resources encouraged pupil’s enthusiastic responses. Opportunities to write at greater length would extend and add greater challenge to their recorded work.
• An interview with a visiting deacon about his role and vocation was particularly well conducted by older pupils. Carefully crafted questions led to them eliciting an absorbing and thought-provoking response from their guest speaker.

• Teaching assistants provide excellent care and support to pupils. They are deployed effectively and show sensitivity to pupils’ needs. They have a positive impact on the progress of both individual learners and groups of learners.

The extent to which the Religious Education curriculum promotes pupils’ learning is good

• The Come and See programme, supplemented with other resources and a cross-curricular approach, is exciting and innovative drawing on a variety of skills from other areas of the curriculum.

• Pupils clearly enjoy Religious Education lessons and they understand their value. They are able to apply what they have learned in the context of their daily lives. They can discuss what they have learned and show they are reflective, not only in lessons, but generally.

• Progress is evident within lessons and throughout the school year as reflected in pupil workbooks. Assessment informs planning and helps to monitor and track pupil progress.

• Visitors to the school, including the Parish Priest and Deacon, serve to enhance provision and learning across the school. The school supports many charities throughout the year.

• The study of other world faiths such as Judaism and Islam help children respect other religious traditions.

• The annual retreat to The Briars Youth Centre in Crich helps the Year 6 children reflect on and celebrate their beliefs and commitment to their faith.

The quality of Collective Worship provided by the school is outstanding

• Collective Worship has a high profile and is central to the life of the school. It plays a key part in meeting the spiritual needs of the pupils. Opportunities are provided to enable full, active and conscious participation of the whole school community.

• There is a clear policy and planning document for Collective Worship and the school ensures that it is both regular and inclusive. The planning of worship is thorough throughout the school year and ensures that feasts, key points in the liturgical year and gospel values are given prominence and are of a high quality.
• All pupils from Early Years to Year Six are involved in Collective Worship, in a variety of forms. These are enthusiastically attended by parents, carers and parishioners and their feedback is very positive.

• Classroom focal points are of a high standard and as a result greatly enhance liturgical classroom celebrations.

• The school benefits from increasingly good links with the parish church. The parish priest gives valued support and guidance to the school in providing excellent provision for the spiritual development of staff and pupils.

How well leaders, governors and managers promote, monitor and evaluate the provision for the Catholic Life of the school and plan and implement improvement to outcomes for pupils is good

• The Executive Headteacher has made a significant impact in leading and shaping the quality of school improvement. Together with the governors, staff and leadership team, all are passionately committed to providing an excellent education for every pupil in an inclusive, nurturing and happy environment shaped by Gospel values.

• School self-evaluation is very thorough, comprehensive and accurate through effective monitoring strategies. The Self Evaluation Document provides evidence of the schools rigorous monitoring, analysis and self-challenge. It is a thorough, authoritative document which guides the school very well. Leaders demonstrate a commitment to the Church’s mission in education with spiritual and moral development a priority.

• The governing body plays an important role in ensuring the provision of the Catholic Life of the school permeates every aspect of school life on a daily basis. There are three meetings each year when governors and staff reflect and discuss issues concerning the Catholic Life of the school and what improvements can be made. The Executive Headteacher, governors and leadership team are excellent role models providing leadership and guidance at all levels.
• The caring relationships within school are very strong as are relationships with parents, parish and the wider community.

• Leaders ensure that parents know what is going on at school and how their children are progressing through regular communication, as well as information on the school’s web site.

• The School Development Plan features Religious Education and the Catholic Life of the school as a priority. Staff training is undertaken to ensure pupils are taught well and that teachers are up to date with current theological thinking and practice.

• The appointment of a parish liaison worker has improved the links between the school and the parish church. The parish is better informed about what is going on in school and children’s work is often on display in church. Children made a tapestry to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the parish church and contributed exhibits for their flower festival. She has also organised visitors to school to talk about other world faiths such as Judaism and Islam.

How well leaders, governors and managers monitor and evaluate the provision for Religious Education and plan and implement for improvement to outcomes for pupils is good

• Governors and the leadership team have clearly defined monitoring structures and policies in place which enable them to self-evaluate accurately. The Self Evaluation Document provides evidence of the school’s monitoring, analysis and self-challenge. It gives an accurate picture of the Catholic Life of the school, the provision for Religious Education and its analysis provides a basis to celebrate the school’s strengths and also outlines areas identified for development.

• The governor with responsibility for Religious Education has a good understanding through monitoring visits to school. This helps governors make well-informed judgements.

• The Religious Education subject leader is highly focused on the school’s mission and works very effectively to promote it. Through good subject knowledge and targeted support she has been effective in raising achievement and standards. She ensures that teaching staff deliver the Religious Education curriculum well. The co-ordinator for liturgy is very effective in promoting dynamic, reverent and joyful celebrations involving the children in the planning of them.

• Monitoring is timetabled and effective. Opportunities for staff evaluations, self-challenge and sharing of outstanding practice will further develop this process.

• There is a good induction, support and mentoring system in place for new members of staff. This leads to staff having greater confidence in delivering good quality lessons and a sound understanding of how to ensure pupils of all abilities make good progress.
This final section draws together all the evidence and judgements made in the preceding sections

• Provide opportunities for pupils to use their skills at extended writing in Religious Education lessons.

• Increase the use of interactive features of ICT to support and enhance teaching and learning.
